Overview

Russian authorities have started delivering “humanitarian” electricity to the breakaway Georgian region of Abkhazia to alleviate a severe energy crisis, Interfax reported Monday, citing the region's energy and transportation ministry. The plant accounts for all of Abkhazia's supply and more than 35 per cent of the electricity used in territory controlled by Tbilisi. The Abkhazia faces a chronic electricity crisis that traditionally hits its peak severity during the winter. On the eve of the 2025 cold season, the de facto authorities vowed to prevent an energy collapse. However, a close look at the reality on the ground suggests their promises won't bring optimism. Cryptocurrency mining increases power demand, escalating tensions. A stern warning about an impending “humanitarian catastrophe” was given on Saturday by. Dec 23 (Interfax) - Russia is starting a humanitarian flow of electricity to Abkhazia in response to acting Abkhaz President Badra Gunba's request to the Russian leadership in light of Abkhazia's electricity crisis. "In response to Abkhazia's request, the leadership of Russia once again extended a. Winter is traditionally harsh for the occupied region, as water levels in the Enguri Hydropower Plant (HPP) decrease, leading to lower electricity production. The Enguri HPP is the only energy source for Abkhazia, and in the absence of gas infrastructure, the pressure on the sector intensifies in.
