

New Scam for Photovoltaic Panel Rental

Overview

In 2024, the Federal Trade Commission (FTC) logged over 1.3 million robocall scam complaints, with solar “offers” consistently ranking high on the list. If you didn't request a solar quote, legitimate solar companies should not be calling or emailing you. Did a salesperson knock on your door and promise free rooftop solar panels at no cost to you?

Or say you'll never have to pay another electricity bill because government programs, grants, or rebates cover your solar installation?

It's likely a scam. Find a solar panel installer today! Whether it's door-to-door or online, a forceful salesperson might inform you that a certain deal, like a financing rate or an incentive program, will only remain available. If you want solar panels, be very careful when evaluating installation offers. Con artists use misleading sales tactics and lies to trick homeowners out of money and personal information. There are no federal government giveaways for solar panel installations, and no company is required to offer them for. Here are some of our recommendations for avoiding solar scams: The saying "there's no such thing as a free lunch" applies when shopping for solar.
