

Photovoltaic panel piling engineering scam

Overview

---

These scams start with an unexpected phone call, message on social, or even an in-person visit. Or they might try to sign you up for a “free” program to make your home more energy efficient with. While reputable companies can help you save money with clean or solar energy improvements, scammers offer more than they can deliver. While there are still many honest and reliable solar panel companies on the market, it can be hard to differentiate the good guys from the rest. While most solar companies and representatives operate with integrity, homeowners must know potential pitfalls in the solar journey. In this article, we're focusing on the hidden. While the best solar panels can offer significant benefits, including reduced energy costs and a smaller carbon footprint, the growing industry has unfortunately attracted its share of scammers and unethical companies. Some even claim you'll get a check in the mail just for installing panels on your roof. If it sounds too good to be true, it probably is. In the worst cases, homeowners have been left making payments on overpriced systems that don't work, with little to no support from the installation company that put the panels on their roof.
