Overview

A controversial radio site north of Rome is set to become a solar farm as the Vatican pushes its green transition. In line with the principles of the encyclical 'Laudato Si' and a United Nations agreement on climate change, Pope Francis is making the Vatican "greener. He did so with the apostolic letter. Thanks to a unique photovoltaic plant installed on the roof of the Vatican Audience Hall, the Papal State has been producing 300 MWh of solar energy every year since its installation in 2008. The project was planned and managed by BayWa r. "There is a need to make a transition to a model of sustainable development that. ROME (AP) — Italy agreed Thursday to a Vatican plan to turn a 430-hectare (1,000-acre) field north of Rome, once the source of controversy between the two, into a vast solar farm that the Holy See hopes will generate enough electricity to meet its needs and turn Vatican City into the world's first. ROME (AP) — The agreement stipulates that the development of the Santa Maria Galeria site will preserve the agricultural use of the land and minimize the environmental impact on the territory, according to a Vatican statement.
